

American Flyers Begin Last Lap

Have Completed 20,000 Miles of 27,000-Mile Round-the-World Flight—Must Face Uncharted Course of North Atlantic but Fear No Danger—Navy's Plans to Aid Safety.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Brough, England, July 30.—Having travelled approximately three fourths of the way around the world in their historic flight, the United States Army flyers, headed by Lieut. Lowell M. Smith, turned their faces towards home today.

The six intrepid American aviators, travelling in three machines, left Brough at 10:25 o'clock for Kirkwall, in the Orkney Islands, off Scotland. The weather was good and the airmen expected to reach the island port early in the afternoon.

Two Stops On Iceland.

The Americans plan to rest over night at Kirkwall, replenishing their supplies. If weather conditions are good they will leave tomorrow morning for Iceland, making two stops at that ice-bound island.

The jump off starting today is regarded as the "last" lap of the Americans' globe girdling flight, although they will have to traverse the Atlantic ocean from Iceland.

The entire flight, owing to necessary diversions, is about 27,000 miles in distance. The airmen have accomplished approximately 20,000 miles, leaving 7,000 miles yet to be travelled.

Lt. Smith and his companions were jubilant over their leave taking. They were getting restless under enforced delay.

No Time for Fashions.

Just before the flyers left, the American mail arrived, accompanied by a large package from London containing shirts from a fashionable Bond street store.

Lt. Smith scanned the list of contents and laughed as he commented: "We have no room for haberdashery upon the airplanes. Guess we will have to mail them to the United States."

In addition to the shirts, there were shoes and neckties in the package.

Day dawned misty at Brough, but there was only a light wind. The Americans were up early scanning the horizon. The motors were quickly overhauled and the airmen, after a light breakfast, took their places.

Smith's engine proved balky. It began to misfire and the American commander feared to attempt to rise from the waters of the Humber Estuary. Smith was compelled to "dead" about seven miles down the stream towards the sea before he rose into the air.

Both sides of the stream were filled with shipping and a considerable number of spectators were on the banks. As Smith rose into the air, a faint cheer went up.

"Goodbye, Yankee" cried the Britons as the airplane soared upward like a huge sea gull.

While Smith was maneuvering in the water, his five companions in their two planes were hovering overhead, wondering if their start was again to be delayed.

Weather Conditions Favorable.

Lt. Erik Nelson and his companions in the air listened with trepidation to the spasmodic coughing of Smith's motor. Finally it settled down into a steady roar, and the bow of the plane lifted from the Humber surface. The engine was working well as the three planes headed off towards the Scottish coast at terrific speed.

Out at sea, on board his flagship, the Richmond, Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, of the United States Navy, was keeping a weather eye upon the horizon along the rim of Humber Bay. The admiral, who is in command of the American patrol ships strung across the north Atlantic, had reported weather conditions favorable and he wanted to see the Americans safe at Kirkwall before any unexpected squall could blow up.

Before leaving, Lt. Smith told the International News Service correspondent at Brough they expected to follow the coast line.

"We will try to keep from rising to such a height that the shore will be invisible," said Lt. Smith. "That is a better plan than trying to follow a map. We know that the Scottish coast is noted for its adverse winds and we will not have much time to study maps on the way."

The distance from Brough to Kirkwall is 370 miles. The airmen had planned to float their machines at 5 o'clock, leaving at 7 o'clock for the Orkneys, but weather conditions and a balky motor interfered.

Transversing Uncharted Course.

Lt. Smith said that he and his companions would remain at Kirkwall until the guardian destroyers and cruisers reported weather conditions favorable for flying between Scotland and Iceland. The Americans were willing to take a chance in any kind of weather, but the route is practically uncharted and has never been used for airplane flights before and the officials at Washington were unwilling to have the intrepid young aviators risk their lives.

The United States destroyers Reid and Billingsley are stationed between the Scottish coast and Raykjavik, Iceland, while the Raleigh is lying off Hortafoord.

Flagship to Welcome Them.

Man Identifies Rose as Robber

Cecilia DeWitt, known also as Rose Gold, a young mulatto woman, was arraigned before Judge Robert G. Groves in police court late Tuesday afternoon on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. She was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, and the hearing adjourned to Friday morning. Bail was fixed at $1,500. In default of bail she was remanded to the county jail.

Rose is accused of helping herself to $150 from the pocket of one George Rague of New York city. He lives in New York and Tuesday when notified that she had been arrested came to Kingston and identified her as the woman who robbed him. Rose is also accused of stealing a ten dollar bill from another man Monday evening.

Klan Meetings End in Fights

Both Klansmen and Assaults Appeared Anxious to Take Law in Own Hands and Jeered Representative of the Law.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Lancaster, Mass., July 30.—Several persons are in the hospital today, some seriously injured, as the result of outbreaks of rioting between members of the Ku Klux Klan and those opposed to the hooded order here and at Spencer.

Shotguns loaded with rock salt and revolvers were discharged and showers of stones and other missiles thrown during the disturbance.

Among the injured are Edward Beard of Leominster, who was removed to a hospital suffering from nearly a dozen shot wounds.

William O'Tool is at the Clinton Hospital with a bullet wound in the head.

Paul Kitteredge, well known in the western part of the state as a football player, received four wounds believed to have been caused by rock salt.

The disturbance practically ended when the Klansmen agreed to permit police and state troopers to make a search for arms. Clubs and stones were all that was found and the besieged began their departure. One machine, loaded with Klansmen, was followed and overtaken by another car and a spirited battle ensued in which one member at least of the Klan party was severely injured.

Earlier attempts on the part of the Klansmen to leave the field were frustrated by showers of stones. Two machines that gained the outskirts of the field retreated to the stone walled enclosure.

Five young men seen leaving the scene were arrested charged with rioting and held under $100 bail each.

Roy Grover's spine was probably fractured when he was struck by an automobile loaded with Klansmen seeking to escape.

Patrolman Peter Sonia, summoned to aid in quelling the disturbance, is at the Clinton hospital with a possible fracture of the skull, inflicted when he was struck with a rock. Four stitches were required to close a wound over the eye of W. D. Anderson of Lakeview avenue.

Many others less seriously injured left the scene without making known their names.

Many of the Klansmen's automobiles were badly damaged by the crowd of men and boys, both here and at Spencer, who opposed them.

The meeting here was held on the farm of Charles Schumaker. The Spencer meeting was held on the farm of Warren Wilson, a mile from the town.

The meeting at Spencer was not molested until the 300 odd Klansmen started to leave. Then more than 500 men and boys who had been watching the meeting from some distance showered the departing automobiles with stones. State and local police could do but little to quell the disturbance.

At Lancaster the Klansmen, numbering about 200, were completely surrounded by several times that number opponents. Shots were exchanged frequently and it was here most of the casualties occurred. The police again found themselves almost helpless.

When Allen G. Buttrick, chairman of the board of selectmen, appeared and appealed to both factions to disperse, he was booed and jeered by Klansmen and non-Klansmen and the fighting continued.

TWO CHILDREN WROKE THEIR ARMS IN FALLS TUESDAY.

Hugh R. Graff of Brooklyn, who is spending his vacation at Rosendale, fell from a stone wall Tuesday and broke his arm. The boy had the fracture reduced at the Kingston City Hospital.

Ether Proper, a young girl residing in Brooklyn, who is visiting in Eopous, fell from a chair and broke her arm. The fracture was reduced at the Kingston City Hospital.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR STEALING WOOD

William Vandebogart was brought to the Ulster county jail Tuesday evening from the town of Shandaken, to serve 15 days. He pleaded guilty to petty larceny in having taken some wood from the premises of a summer residence. Justice of the Peace Theodore J. Voss imposed the sentence.

Colonials Must Have Aid Or Disband August First

Final Appeal to the Men of Foresight and Public Spirit Who Realize the Advantages Resulting to Kingston from Continuing Baseball Team of High Standard to Represent This City.

The following final appeal in behalf of the Colonial baseball club is being made to the public-spirited citizens of Kingston: Sometime ago an appeal was made to the citizens of Kingston on behalf of the Colonial baseball club for financial aid in order to insure the fact that the club would continue to represent the city of Kingston through the remainder of the present season.

This appeal did not meet with a very hearty response on the part of local citizens and as a result the management is faced with the possibility of disbanding the baseball organization the first of next month for the rest of the season unless some sort of financial aid is accorded them at once.

As was stated in the former appeal the Colonial Baseball Club was organized four years ago and has played through three successive and successful seasons, and has been entirely self-supporting, never requesting the aid of the business or professional men of this city and county.

This year the club is looked upon by all baseball critics as being the strongest semi-pro aggregation in the country and in the words of Larry Doyle, former Giant player and now manager of the Glens Falls semi-pro club, "has no business playing semi-pro ball but should be in the International League." This fact was further proven by the exceptionally strong showing which the club made against the Pittsburgh National League team when they played in this city. It was the consensus of opinion among the Pittsburgh players after the game here that the Colonials "are the best semi-pro club that we have run up against."

Playing the best semi-pro teams that it is possible to play, the Colonials so far this season have won 31 games and lost only 13. Considering the advertisement alone which this club has brought to Kingston, saying nothing about the enjoyment derived by hundreds of our citizens in witnessing the games, and the hundreds of visitors attracted to the city, we feel that we as a committee are going to make a final appeal to the civic pride of our city and vicinity and ask them to aid us in seeing that the Colonial Ball Club is held together and not allowed to disband the first of August as it will have to do if aid is not forthcoming.

Therefore, we earnestly solicit your aid and request you to help this cause to the best of your ability when a committee of citizens visits you on Friday of this week and Monday of next week to solicit your support.

Further than this, we appeal to the ball fans who frequent the Fair Grounds to make contributions, other than the regular price of admission, to this cause when they attend the games there, beginning Thursday evening when the Tannersville Ball Club will oppose the local club. For this purpose a box will be placed just inside the Fair Grounds where the fans may deposit their contributions, no matter how small the amount.

We also appeal to those who have already made subscriptions to see that the full amount of the same is paid in at once to Henry Bernstein, treasurer, Hotel Suyvaant, Kingston, N. Y.

We ask the citizens of this city to respond at once and trust and believe their civic pride will enable this club, which has brought great credit to our city, to continue to play for the rest of the season.

Very truly yours,

Sneak Thief Has Confessed Crime

Jesse Williams, the negro arrested last Saturday by Sergeant Hanley, has confessed, the police say, to several burglaries about the city.

This morning T. A. Bennett of Washington avenue, whose house was entered by the sneak thief last week, was at the city hall to swear to an information. The thief obtained about $80 in money and some jewelry from the Bennett house.

One of the stolen watches, the police say, was found on Williams when he was arrested.

Williams appears to be a happy-go-lucky negro, and does not seem to realize the seriousness of his situation. It is said that he has confessed to the police that he committed several robberies about the city and that he also entered some Newburgh homes.

Williams will be arraigned later in police court on a burglary charge and it is expected he will be held to await the action of the grand jury.

SHADER LEFT HOSPITAL AFTER GETTING CARE.

Edwin Shader, former policeman, who was injured Tuesday when the bicycle he was riding was struck by an auto driven by Leo Gallo at Broadway and Franklin street, was able to leave the Kingston City Hospital after having his wounds dressed. Mr. Shader was badly bruised, and cut.

Martial Law in Rumania.

Paris, July 30.—Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Rumania following receipt of information by the government that a high army officer was planning a coup d'etat, according to a report from Bucharest today.

Two Girls Drowned.

Edna Varrick, 17, and Olga Kabesta, 13, of Brooklyn, were drowned in the Walkill river near New Denton, Monday evening. There were a number of girls on the beach who saw the drowning but were so frightened they were unable to act.

Republicans to Elect Delegates

Caucuses Thursday Night in City and County Will Elect Delegates to Republican County Convention.

Republican caucuses will be held in all the county districts and in all the wards of this city Thursday evening at the regularly designated polling places for the purpose of electing delegates to attend the Ulster County Republican Convention which will be held at the Kingston Opera House on Thursday, August 1th.

The caucuses will be called to order by the chairman of each district at eight o'clock and the polls will remain open until nine o'clock. It is expected that there will be a large turnout in view of the interest which is being manifested in the efforts of each of the six candidates for the nomination of county judge to secure delegates favorable to them.

Air of Hope For Reparation

But Allied Reparations Conference Has Nothing Definite Except Good Will of Delegations.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, July 30.—France's proposals for meeting the objections of the international bankers regarding guarantees for the proposed $200,000,000 loan for Germany, which were to have been submitted to the Allied Reparations Conference, today were not completed and the work of reaching a final decision upon this important phase of the parity was delayed.

The French proposals, it is understood, provide for a system of arbitration for settling what sanctions the diplomatic term for penalties shall be imposed upon Germany in the event of defaulting any obligations incurred under the Dawes reparation plan.

It is understood that the chief outlines of the French proposals included the following:

1. Careful consideration of Germany's suggestions for loan pledges.

2. Reparations commission to act as arbitrator in the event of future dispute.

3. France and Belgium will be given authority to make their arrangements for evacuation of the Ruhr, in accordance with the speed the German nation makes in putting the Dawes plan into effect.

The members of the allied reparations commission are expected to be here by tomorrow morning.

While the general atmosphere is hopeful there is no definite basis for optimism except the good will of the various delegations.

Commission Goes to London.

Paris, July 30.—The inter-allied reparations commission, which has been sitting in Paris since the Versailles peace treaty was signed, decided today to go to London to participate directly in the allied conference.

The commission will hold an official session Thursday morning in London. "The members of the commission not in London already will go there tonight."

Found With Wire Which Was Stolen

George Gordon and Floyd Perry of Newburgh were committed to the Ulster county jail to await the action of the grand jury, by Justice of the Peace Harold Lent at Highland Tuesday, being charged with grand larceny. George Cahill, manager of the New Paltz-Highland Trolley Company, was the complainant, alleging the men entered a building of the company in Centerville and carried away a quantity of copper wire. Sergeant Hopkins and State Trooper Aldorf with Deputy Sheriff Lyons of Highland, when notified of the larceny went in search of Gordon and Perry and captured them. The stolen copper wire was found in a truck in which they were carrying it away. They were taken back to Highland and arraigned before Judge Lent who held them for the grand jury.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., July 30.—(Special) Joseph J. Kipp and William E. Terwilliger of Mohonk Lake and Fred Palen of New Paltz were appointed today members of the New York State Troopers by Captain John A. Warner. They will be assigned to G Company of that organization.

SAYS HUSBAND HIT HER OVER HEAD WITH STICK

Joseph Balisewski of No. 88 Third avenue on Tuesday was placed under arrest by his wife and turned over to Policeman Welch. This morning the wife was present in police court to press the charge of assault in the third degree, which she had lodged against her husband. She said that he took a stick and struck her over the head with it. The hearing was adjourned to Friday morning. Judge Harry E. Schirlick fixed bail at $1,000.

WERE BOYS COMPETENT TO PLEAD GUILTY?

Judge Caverly Decides to Take Testimony of Alienists to Determine Whether Chicago Slayers Were Competent to Plead in Order That Rights Should Not Be Waived By Lawyers—Insanity Not the Issue.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Criminal Court, Chicago, Ill., July 30.—The battle of alienists in the Loeb-Leopold case is on.

The state rested its case against Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb for the murder of little Bobby Franks within two minutes after court opened this morning, and the defense promptly put on the witness stand Dr. William A. White of Washington.

He was selected to lead off for the half dozen of men of medical science who will try to save the two young collegians from going to the gallows for the crime.

Just as soon as Dr. White had given his name and occupation, State's Attorney Crowe was on his feet, his face flushed, and speaking rapidly, he protested vigorously against "any testimony in this trial touching upon the sanity or insanity of these defendants."

"Overruled," said Judge Caverly, laconically.

Crowe flushed even more. "I want to be heard on that," he snapped.

"All right," said the court, smoothly.

"What is the defense trying to do here?" demanded Crowe, his voice at high pitch. "Are they trying to show these defendants insane?"

"From the moment your honor hears any evidence on insanity in this case, then this becomes a mock trial, and any judgment that your honor renders is not worth the paper it is written on, for the supreme court will declare it in error."

Crowe pointed out that if Judge Caverly sentences Leopold and Loeb to prison for life the state has no appeal; while the defendants have.

Jury May Determine Insanity.

He hauled out the statutes of the state of Illinois and read to Judge Caverly one statute providing that when there is a question of sanity or insanity a jury must be impaneled to hear the case and make the decision.

His voice was high pitched and angry and he pounded his fist in his hand as he spoke.

Judge Caverly broke in on him. He cited the case of a man named Rosen, who killed his wife a short time ago and came up before him for sentence. Alienists in that case told Judge Caverly that Rosen was "on the border line of insanity," and he appointed three of their number to examine him.

A plea of guilty was finally accepted and Rosen was sent to the state prison for life. The court said that was a precedent.

Crowe refused to agree to it and kept referring time and again to the statute.

Court's Right, Says Judge.

"It is mandatory, your honor," he shouted again and again.

"It is true, Mr. Crowe," said the court, "that when these boys pleaded guilty to this crime, the court accepted their pleas of guilty as sane men."

"But if evidence of their mental state is not to be taken, how is the court to know whether they were competent to plead guilty? Certainly I have a right to know whether these boys are competent. I cannot allow the attorneys here to waive the rights of these boys."

"Whenever, gentlemen, in the opinion of this court these boys are insane, the court will instruct the withdrawal of their plea of guilty, and the entering of a plea of not guilty."

"There are various forms of insanity," continued the judge.

Court Wants Facts.

"Not under the law," interrupted Crowe. "A man is either sane or he is insane. If it is conceded, for the sake of argument, that insanity is a defense in this case, have these boys any right to a defense in view of their plea of guilty? Have they the right to introduce testimony bearing on their mental state?"

"Yes," retorted the judge and the defense attorneys in unison.

"These boys are not going to be allowed to plead insanity as a defense in this case," went on Judge Caverly, "but this court certainly has the right to hear all the evidence in this case."

"This court is not going to hear the question of sanity or insanity here."

"Yes, but the tendency is—" began Crowe.

"Oh, there you go again with tendencies," interrupted the court. "The court has said that it does not intend to hear the question of sanity or insanity here."

"If there is a question of sanity here this case will be tried by a jury."

"But you can't escape the question of sanity or insanity," objected Crowe.

"Well, we will try to," said the court.

The argument continued into the authorities and the statutes, the state's attorney contending that under the laws of Illinois there was no other alternative for the court but to call a jury if the alienists were to be allowed to describe the youthful murderers as abnormal, queer and of twisted moral and mental state.

Illinois Supersedes Blackstone.

The court listened patiently, interrupting now and then, with a remark as to what the supreme court had ruled in such cases.

"Blackstone says—" observed one of Crowe's aides.

"I didn't ask you about Blackstone," snapped the court. "I said what has the supreme court of Illinois said?"

To Crowe, Judge Caverly said: "It does not look like we will ever get together on this."

"Time was taken while clerks were dispatched for bulky volumes of authorities and precedents."

The famous Gene Geary case was cited. Geary was a notorious south side gunman who shot a policeman and was sentenced to death. His attorneys contended that he became insane while awaiting execution and won their case, so that Geary is now in the state hospital for the criminal insane.

"Yes," said Judge Caverly, "and if Geary ever reaches sanity again it will then be the duty of the criminal court to set the date for his execution."

Crowe contended there "can be no mitigation in a crime as atrocious and brutal as this."

He then asked Judge Caverly whether Loeb and Leopold had killed young Franks in "self defense" or "in a state of rage" or "in a drunken brawl."

"No," he declared, answering his own questions. "They took him out deliberately and killed him for no motive at all except brutality. In such case there can be no mitigation."

Right of The Court.

"The question before this court is," remarked Judge Caverly, "have I the right to hear all the evidence in this case or have I not?"

While the lawyers clustered closely about Judge Caverly's bench arguing and wrangling, the two defendants sat quietly in their seats, their faces eager, their eyes bright, listening to every word and trying to peer over the heads of the crowd.

The arguments were conducted in tones that, save occasionally, did not reach all over the court room. Judge Caverly was particularly soft spoken.

At the end of an hour the argument was still in progress. The principal spokesman for the state by this time was "Tom" Marshall, the authority precedent expert of the state attorney's office.

Insanity Under Another Name.

Darrow was repeating: "We are not trying to plead insanity."

"You are setting up a plea of insanity under another name," said Marshall.

"It is the state's contention this case is outside of the field of defense, it is now within the broad field of mercy. Why should they not hang?"

"We have the right," countered Attorney Bachrach, "to submit any thing in the way of medical, mental or pathological condition of these boys to the court for the court to weigh it as he will."

"Any time there is a question of sanity or insanity," Crowe interrupted again and again, "the law is mandatory that your honor call a jury to determine that question."

Mental Responsibility as Mitigation.

"The court has the right to hear any evidence of mitigation in this case bearing on the mental responsibility of these boys," Judge Caverly insisted.

"I don't know what the defense is going to do. I only know that they want to put a medical man on the stand to testify in this case. After it's all in, then I will consider it. No one knows what effect it will have."

Crowe asked Judge Caverly if he was not attempting to assume the prerogatives of a jury.

"This is a waste of time," the court replied. "The court is willing to listen to reason, or to any authority, but the court does not know of authority which says that it cannot hear in mitigation any testimony touching on the case. It's ridiculous."

The argument was still going hot and heavy at 11:30, the hour usually set for a five minute recess, and Judge Caverly stopped it and announced the usual rest period would

Farm Bureau Judging Schools

Prof. L. M. Hurd of Cornell University, who is conducting the week in the county judging poultry schools in the communities of Cliftondale, Ulster Park, Stone Ridge and Kerhonkson. Judging schools are a step in advance of the old culling demonstrations held in the past and are of special benefit to poultrymen, who study and understand the business.

The principal points to be considered in judging according to Professor Hurd are, body type, type of head, condition of skin and abdomen, temperament, date of molt and recorded production. Birds which can be rated high on each point will be profitable in the laying house.

Matters Before The Surrogate

In surrogate's court the last will and testament of Sarah Young of the town of Wavering has been admitted to probate. The executors are Chester Young and George Young. Value of estate exceeds $5,000 real and exceeds $10,000 personal. Raymond G. Cox is attorney for the petitioners, the executors.

Surrogate Kaufman has assessed and fixed the tax under the taxable transfer tax on the estate of David Ray of the town of Ulster on the appraisal by William H. Van Etten, county treasurer, the appraiser. Net value of estate $9,086.54, on which there is a tax of $40.87. Mary Ray is entitled to the estate. Philip Elting represented the administratrix; Thomas F. Coughlin the state tax commission.

The appraisal of the estate of Margaret Jensen of Pine Bush, town of Shawangunk, made by William H. Van Etten, county treasurer, as appraiser under the taxable transfer act is $6,000, which is exempt. Personal estate of John Egbert Jensen, Elsie Jensen Vernooij, Thomas E. Jensen, Louise Wisner Jensen, A. S. Embler of Walden represented the executrix; Thomas F. Coughlin the state tax commission.

INCREASED CHARGES NOT JUSTIFIED

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, July 30.—Proposed increased refrigeration charges of 27 to 70 per cent on fruits and vegetables in carloads from points on the Western Maryland railroad in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia to destinations in other states throughout the country and in Canada, were found by the interstate commerce commission today not to be justified.

STRANDED STEAMER IS CALLED A TOTAL WRECK.

The steamer Satellite, owned by Captain W. Vredenburg, which is stranded off Catskill Point, is called a total wreck. River men say that she broke in two as she was run on the sandbar to avoid sinking on the morning of July 25. She carried a cargo from the Ford plant at Green Island for New York.

Ruskin's Voice About

His Only Attraction

I never met anyone in my life whose personal appearance disappointed me more than Ruskin's, writes Frank Harris in American Mercury. Until I saw him I had always believed that a man of great ability showed his genius in some feature or other; but I could find no hint in Ruskin's face or figure that suggested abnormal talent.

His appearance was not even prepossessing. He looked shriveled up and shriveled, though he was perhaps the feet seven in height; he was slight to frailty and stooped; in spite of a large nose, his face was too small, bony, thin and very wrinkled; the gray hair that must once have been reddish was carefully brushed flat; the beard and whiskers were gray, too, and straggling thin; the eyes were bright, grayish-blue in color, quick-glancing now, now meditative under the thick outflung brows; the high aquiline nose was watched by a somewhat receding chin; nothing in his face or figure was impressive or arresting; his clothes even were loose and ill-fitting; his manner shy, self-conscious, unassuming; I was disappointed to doubting his ability.

But as soon as he got excited in speaking I noticed his voice, a thin high tenor irresistibly pathetic; it of ten wailed and sometimes curred, but was always intense. The soul of the man was in that singular, musical voice with its high rhetoric and impassioned moral appeal.

Flyers Reach Kirkwall Safely

By Telegram to The Freeman. Kirkwall, Scotland, July 30.—The United States army 'round-the-world' aviators, led by Lieut. Lowell Smith, arrived at Houton Bay at 4 o'clock this afternoon completing the journey from Brough, England in five hours and 35 minutes. The coast line distance between the two points is 370 miles but the airmen took a round-about course, owing to murky weather.

Davis Signed All Invitations

By Telegram to The Freeman. Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Maine, July 30.—More than 2,200 delegates and alternates to the recent Democratic national convention will receive invitations from John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, asking for their personal suggestions as to the conduct of the campaign.

The small post office here worked over time today handling the flood of outgoing correspondence. Each letter bears Davis's personal signature.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis will leave Seven Hundred Acre Island tonight for New York on the 6:25 train from Rockland, arriving in the city at 10:15 o'clock tomorrow morning.

He will also deliver a non-political address enroute at Woolwich.

Davis spent his last vacation today as a member of a picnic party.

The nominee conferred here today with Robert H. Jackson, New Hampshire Democratic leader.

Pine Grove Ave. For Bus Terminal

Suggestion That Traffic Would Not Interfere With Terminal Centrally Located Which Would Prove Convenience to Public.

Kingston, N. Y., July 30, 1924.

Editor of The Freeman:

Dear Sir:

About once a month some "Mr. Fix It" gets up in the meetings of the board of aldermen and starts berating the bus lines that center in our city. These various mob suggestions are not conducive to any better bus service. The central station is still just big enough for three cars and the uptown station is a dirty rubbish pile. To one who has watched the various suggestions of our city legislative body it looks as if all that has been done has been written in water on the wings of the wind.

Permit me to make this point: It's important to have a central station for the many lines to stop at, for there are people constantly changing from one line to another. It's natural for strangers who come by boat to come by trolley to the post office, they find a bus there for they have for the last five or six years, and they find they can reach Saugerties or out of town points in half an hour.

Why not allow a line of busses to park in the center of Pine Grove avenue? It's wide enough for ten times the traffic at present. Then Grand street, on the west side of the street, has but one house from Millards to Smith avenue. Here is room for the parking of a dozen busses, and no danger of their being an obstruction as they are now at the West Shore station.

A man who has been travelling extensively over this part of Ulster county lately by bus and who comes from the home of the largest trolley centers in the Middle West, said:

"I find your bus system here a fine one, and I have been able to reach any important point in the country usually on time, and at very reasonable rates. Through my own neglect once I missed the last Saugerties bus which would have taken my wife and self over the route for seventy cents. A taxi cost me five dollars, and there was no train to reach that point till too late. In my own town we had the same troubles there are here. An over-capitalized trolley system looked on the bus as a competitor. Some tea bonnet stock of an old politician is usually the superintendent. He gets some partly Americanized employee elected to the town council to do the backing for him, and starts out to fix over the bus business.

"Now at the start let us state an old transportation manager's axiom: 'No steam rail road man will make a good trolley road manager, nor can a trolley man run a bus line.' We have found that out in the west, and now every sensible trolley company is putting on busses as feeders to their lines. A good bus costs less than ten thousand dollars but trolley roads cost over ten thousand per mile. Ulster county's bus system has cost a few enterprising fellows a few thousand of dollars and they have now covered territory that they have in any way have served by trolley would have tied up a capital of over a million, as our many over-capitalized roads in many places of the west have.

"I came in this city in May and coming up the Rondout hill one of the wheels came off the trolley car. We changed to another line where the conductor was smoking a cigarette, who stopped his car already behind lines to go to a news store to buy a paper for himself to get some gambling numbers, he said."

Mr. Editor which seems to need the most fixing, the busses or the trolley system is the question that comes to

McAdoo's Brother Bolts Davis

Describes Democratic Convention as "The Crime of '24." and Says Brother's Followers are Fools if they Don't Swing to LaFollette.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, July 30.—Malcom R. McAdoo, brother of William G. McAdoo, runner up for the Democratic presidential nomination in the epoch making New York convention deadlock, today bolted the Democratic ticket and announced he would support Senator Robert M. LaFollette, independent candidate and his running mate, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana.

Announcement of his stand was indicated in a letter to a prominent Chicago Democrat.

"I am for LaFollette and Wheeler" stated the letter, written from New York.

Regarding rumors that McAdoo followers will swing to the progressive standard, it continues:

"I should say they were fools if they did not, after the treatment received at the convention, which will go down in history as the crime of '24."

"I understand the crooked birds in New York term me as a radical. A radical with them is an honest man, and I am glad to have them so term me, as it is a compliment to me. I am glad to align myself with LaFollette and Wheeler, both of them are first class fighters."

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 30, 1924.

Opinion is general that Coolidge and Dawes will carry New York state by an overwhelming majority, but this growing impression should not be permitted to lead Republicans to believe that it is unnecessary for them to get out and vote, assuming there will be enough voting without them, a feeling some individuals have when they feel that victory is certain. Arriving at such a conclusion is over-confidence and in many instances the cause of defeat where victory should be accomplished. Nevertheless, right now, before the President or his running mate have been notified, the people seem convinced that the Republicans will sweep the state.

Though our government is taking no part officially, it is well represented at the London conference on the most pressing of Europe's problems. Secretary Hughes is in London, and though his visit is described as unofficial, he is known to confer with the European leaders in private and is backing the Dawes plan in effective public speeches. Mr. Nelson, our Secretary of the Treasury, is also in London and it is reported that he has much more important business than mere recreation or sight-seeing. Other American officials present are our Ambassador to London and our Ambassador to France. Then there is Col. Logan, who has been connected with reparations since the treaty was signed, and Owen Young, who negotiated much of the Dawes plan. These six form an effective and distinguished American delegation as could be desired.

No incident in the career of Governor Alfred E. Smith caused more comment than his speech at the conclusion of the Democratic national convention, when, according to some, he used the personal pronoun "I" fifty or sixty times. Perhaps it just happened that way and was not impelled by conceit, but even so, it was interpreted differently, for in the opinion of more than a few it was an indication of increasing vanity. This was not the first suggestion of political ego, but apparently it stood out more clearly and was more noticeable. It may be remembered that back in the Sulzer administration legislative correspondence would occasionally take time to count the number of "I's" in one Governor Sulzer's speeches. Doing "natural" provided a measure of argument for hard boiled politicians and at that period Governor Sulzer was looked upon as one of the hardest when it came to "bunk" or "hokum." Time works many changes, however, and the chances are that were a Sulzer speech and a Smith speech compared, that is, a Smith speech of the type delivered in New York, there would be as many "I's" in Al's oratorical effort as there would be in one of Sulzer's.

LAST OF BOXER INDEMNITY.

Our government has cancelled the last balance due from China as part of the Boxer indemnity. After American troops had participated in the suppression of the Boxer uprising in 1900 the nations exacted a huge indemnity from China to cover private claims as well as the cost of military and naval operations. America's share was more than $24,000,000, but by a joint resolution of Congress in 1908 China's obligation was declared too great and was cut down to $13,650,000. This latter sum later on was still further cut, and finally in May of the present year the unpaid balance of a little over six millions was also remitted, thus wiping out entirely our claims under the Boxer indemnity.

The American government's unprecedented action in 1908 caused not only gratitude in China but resentment among European powers, those desiring full payment seeing embarrassment in the example set. Since then several other powers have proposed to remit or reduce their share in the Boxer indemnity, and in Great Britain parliamentary sanction for such action is now said to be assured. It is said that the French expect to apply their portion to the rehabilitation of the French bank in China and to the repayment of creditors who lost through its failure. Japan is said to have decided to devote her share to establishing closer cultural relations with China and for this purpose is now supporting an institute of scientific research. America's recent action may speed up these plans. China's gratitude in 1908 took the form of a decision to devote the remitted payments to the educating of Chinese students in America, and the Chinese government now proposes to devote the last balance remitted by America to scientific and educational work in China. Such is the happy ending of the Boxer massacres and the punishment that followed.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

WHY YOU DID IT?

It is hard to understand why we fail to grasp at times, just why some people behave as they do.

What I mean is that when a certain thing happens to a family, the different ways the members of the family react to it.

To use a very homely illustration. One of the boys in a family brings home a pound of butter from the grocery store. The mother finds that it is not good and wrapping it up tells him to take it back to the store again.

The boy immediately begins to cry bitterly and pleads with his mother not to send him back. The very thought of nothing the grocer is too much for him.

One of the other brothers dislikes the idea of taking the butter back also, but the picture of his crying brother annoys him so deeply, that he picks up the butter and hurries it back.

Both brothers are feeling badly because Jack, the other brother, doesn't just happen to be home.

Why? Because Jack would have taken the butter back without the least concern in the matter. He wouldn't have given the matter a moment's thought.

Now what about these three boys? Why the boy who was afraid to take the butter back could lick any boy in the neighborhood. A fight meant nothing.

The second boy, who took the butter back to relieve his brother's distress, was willing to fight if necessary, was never looking for a fight, but never refused it when it was absolutely necessary.

And Jack, the one who would smilingly take the butter back?

Why Jack would sooner run than fight.

Now what is my point?

That you and I can't judge the other fellow's action.

We can't appreciate his reaction to any emotion, to any trouble, grief, or loss of any kind because we don't really know his life's history. Just to what extent the emotions, or emotionalism, contributes to his makeup.

You and I, perhaps the majority of people act about the same way when it comes to trying to save our lives, in the love we have for our family, but with many other emotions we act differently.

Some people are born with a tendency to emotionalism. Their hearts often guide where the head might do better.

A proposition comes along, and the heart affection dominates.

Now this might mean a financial or other loss, but such a person doesn't feel badly, because he acted as he thought best.

I might put personal gain first in my life. You might put love of family as first.

All that can be done with a boy or girl is to watch their reaction to the everyday emotions of life, and to try and guide them carefully, so that they will adjust themselves to take their places in the world.

WHY

New York Is Well Called "Financial Giant."

In riches and finances, New York presents so many facets that imagination cannot encompass them all. We may start with a few tangible figures. The tax budget for the greater city for the year 1923 was $352,250,975, but that does not include all capital outlays from the sale of bonds or all current expenditures from revenue producing utilities. The New York budget for the year 1920 was more than equal to the combined budgets of Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Francisco and Chicago. The net bonded debt of the city of New York is over a billion dollars—more than ten times the total national debt which many fearsome fathers of the republic thought too heavy for the broad back of America in 1780.

The assessed valuation of the real property within the corporate limits is over 10 billion dollars—one-eighth the valuation of all the farm property in all the states of the Union. Nearly one-fourth of the enormous tribute that flows into the treasury of the United States from personal income taxes is gathered in the city of New York. The bank clearings for the year 1923 reached a staggering total of 214 billion dollars, as against 30 billions for Chicago, 24 billion dollars for Philadelphia and 10 billion dollars for Boston. The total deposits in all the banks of the city run well above seven billion dollars and their resources more than eight and one-half billion dollars.—Charles A. Beard in the American Review of Reviews.

Why Stars Appear to "Twinkle" in the Sky

The twinkling of stars is caused by the continual and frequent refraction of light waves as they pass through the layers of atmosphere which vary in density and temperature. As the light travels through the atmosphere the rays are bent back and forth so frequently that to an observer the stars themselves seem to dance and twinkle. A star close to the horizon usually twinkles more than one directly overhead. This is because the light rays reaching the observer travel a greater distance through the atmosphere. Besides, light traveling more or less parallel with layers of atmosphere is refracted more irregularly.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Why Small Town Is Famous

Amalfi, a seaport town of Italy, lying some 32 miles east of Naples, once a great and thriving republic, is now occupied by only a small population. For the second time in the century it was recently visited by a devastating land slide. Amalfi is proud of its past history and of its citizens. In the days of its greatness, it was a citizen of Amalfi, by name Flavio Gioia, who invented the mariner's compass. It was the Republic of Amalfi, also, which promulgated the maritime laws, adopted afterwards by neighboring powers. In the crypt of the Cathedral at Amalfi are said to repose the bones of St. Andrew. The doors of the crypt were cast in Constantinople in 1060.

Why "Pianoforte"

The invention of the pianoforte is properly accredited to Bartolomeo Cristofori (or Cristoforo) of Padua, Italy, whose first instrument appeared in 1714. Other claimants for this honor are J. C. Schroeter, German, and Marinus, a Frenchman. The pianoforte was first introduced into England about 1766. The name is derived from two Italian words meaning soft and loud, respectively, and was given to the instrument because the notes (which are produced by the action of hammers on wires) may be increased or diminished in loudness at will.

Why Popcorn Pops

The exact cause of popping in popcorn is not very well understood. It was formerly believed that the sudden explosion of popcorn was caused by the expansion of certain oil when heated. But a recent authority says neither air nor oil has anything to do with the process. The popping of a grain of popcorn, says this authority, is an explosion due to the expansion under pressure of moisture contained in the starch grains. The explosion ruptures the outer coat, turns the grain inside out and exposes the white part of the grain.

How "Bachelor" Originated

The word was, in medieval days, applied to knights who were in the probationary stage of knighthood and to monks who had not taken the full vows of monasticism. In the medieval colleges this name bachelor was given to students who completed the first degree of their university career; in this sense the word was changed to read baccalaureus. Thus in earlier days it was not the conferring of a degree but the recognition of the student's ability to a higher course of study.

Why Called "Jayhawkers"

The name "Jayhawker" originated in Kansas during the contest over slavery before the Civil war. The border ruffians, who ravaged farms, drove away horses and carried on a guerrilla war, were called "jayhawkers" by the free-soil men. The most probable derivation is from jayhawk, a fierce bird of prey, which it is said kills other creatures for the mere love of killing. The people of Kansas have been humorously nicknamed Jayhawkers and Kansas is known as the Jayhawk state.

Broadcast Bill's Radiolays

By WILLIAM E. DOUGLASS

I'm learnin', folks, I'm learnin', stalled. But aside from them things technical, on fairway or green my first games had mental hazards, if you gather what I mean. 'Course you know I'm used to 'is'nin' all my spare time, day an' night on my radio receiver with the earmuffs clamped on tight an' I couldn't keep from thinkin' how convenient it would be to be searin' all them good things on the green or on the tee. So I tried to solve the problem an' succeeded more or less, any way my game's improv'n' due to radio I guess. To the tune of Annie Laurie I approach the green in four, holin' out in six or seven to the final baseball score. But there's this one disadvantage usin' radio I think I can't hear em at the nineteenth when they say, "Let's have a—lemonade." Copyright, 1924, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.

SAUGERTIES GAS CO. WANTS TO LIGHT GLASCO

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, July 29.—Hearing was held this morning by the Public Service Commission on the petition of the Saugerties Gas Light Company for permission to lay gas mains and supply gas for light, heat and power in the village of Glasco, Ulster county. It was brought out that the company obtained a franchise from the town of Saugerties in 1920 but had never exercised it. The present plant has a sufficient capacity to supply all of the gas needed without any extension to the plant. The company plans to spend about $25,000 if the petition is granted in the excavating for and laying the mains.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for this Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

GEORGIA PROUD OF COMMANDER DUNLAP

In Gainesville, Ga., they have a lawyer named Edgar B. Dunlap. The folks there think a lot of Ed and may be that was why the American Legion, Department of Georgia, elected him state commander.

Not long ago Ed was seen squeezing the MacNider trophy awarded annually to the department making the best membership showing. Georgia had won the cup for a steady, persistent increase in members.

Commander Dunlap was born in Gainesville, April 19, 1892. He grew up into a six-foot sturdy man who at college could outwalk most men of his age. He tells stories sometimes of his many hikes. Once he walked 14 miles at night and appeared in Atlanta for the football game between the University of Georgia eleven and a visiting college team.

After taking his degree in 1913 Ed decided he wanted to be a lawyer. So he continued his studies and was admitted to the bar in 1915. During the two years he was studying torts and evidence he was professor of Latin in the Gainesville high school and tutor in public speaking at the University of Georgia.

Then he went back to Gainesville to practice law. This he continued until the United States entered the Edgar B. Dunlap.

World war. Meantime he had served as civilian aide to the secretary of war for the state of Georgia and was for a time United States commissioner for the northern district of Georgia.

On May 11, 1917, a little more than a month after the United States declared war on Germany, he entered the First Officers' Training camp at Fort Macpherson and the following August he was commissioned a captain. Transferred to Camp Gordon he drilled colored troops until May, 1918, when he sailed overseas. He saw active fighting in the Toul sector, Marbache sector, St. Mihiel offensive and in the bloody Argonne. He was discharged on June 4, 1919, and returned to Gainesville to resume his practice.

But Ed, being a man with vision, saw the possibilities of service in the American Legion and not long after he had shed his uniform he organized the Paul E. Bolding post at Gainesville and was elected its first commander.

Since then he has been actively connected with the Legion. He was successively delegate to the first national convention in Minneapolis in 1919 and served on the Legion's constitutional committee. In 1919, 1920 and in 1922 he served his department as executive committee member and in 1923 was elected state commander.

National headquarters of the Legion recognized his undoubted ability and he was appointed on the national finance committee. When the adjusted compensation battle was at its height he also served as a member of the augmented legislative committee.

Commander Dunlap is married and has two children, Minnie, born in 1918 and James, born in 1919.

To Help Attract Tourists

Organization of the Tacoma, Wash., tourist bureau, by means of which it is hoped to attract many visitors to that city was proposed by the American Legion. Certain members of the veterans' organization, impressed by the possibilities of such a bureau, took the matter up with the local chamber of commerce, and on formation of the bureau, the post was the first to accept membership.

Legion Men Alert

When a bank in Hayward, Wyo., recently closed its doors, the entire post fund of the American Legion was involved, even money due state and national headquarters of the Legion. This did not daunt the Legion men, however, as they immediately formulated plans for a come-back, which included home-talent plays, showing of Legion films and other money-making activities.

Clocks of Wood

Ell Terry, born in Windsor, Conn., in 1772, made his first clocks by hand, the movements being of wood. He was the leading maker of wooden clocks in America and invented the shelf clock which introduced the pillar-scroll top case.

COMMUNITY SERVICE AROUSES INTEREST

Interest in community and civic betterment among members of the American Legion is growing rapidly. Garland W. Powell, director of the Legion's national Americanism commission, said in a recent statement issued at Indianapolis. Mr. Powell is directing this phase of Legion work.

Mr. Powell's statement was based on the hundreds of requests which have been pouring into the community and civic betterment bureau, a division of the Americanism commission, for advice on various subjects and for copies of the new pamphlet "Your Post and Your Town," for distribution by the Legion's bureau.

"While we have many reports concerning posts which have already assumed some community responsibility, it is, indeed, surprising how many Legionnaires are planning campaigns for betterment of conditions about them," Mr. Powell declared. "Requests for direction along these lines are received daily, and indicate that constructive work for their neighbors is the principal aim of this great group of ex-service men," he said.

Mr. Powell said there was no intention on the part of the Legion to supplant any agency engaged in work of this character, but that the Legion's broad membership would qualify it as an agency best equipped to align all community endeavor.

"The volume of the requests received decided the course of the new bureau, handling this work," Mr. Powell said. "The great number of these requests clearly indicate that Legion men are thinking in lines of community service and are seeking best channels of expression in the various lines. As a consequence, the community and civic betterment bureau is to function principally in an advisory capacity."

Advice furnished by the bureau will extend to every phase of community development and civic betterment, according to Mr. Powell. Perhaps most stress will be laid on recreation or some activity which will tend to occupation of the leisure time of the nation, but he declares this clearly anticipates civic betterment, including community building, memorials, playgrounds and recreation centers, health conservation, philanthropic administration, municipal progress and general community organization.

"Because members of the American Legion represent every class in the country," Mr. Powell declared, "I predict that the organization will go far in accomplishments for the nation—leading to ideal conditions of American citizenship."

Radio Is Presented to Reconstruction Home

A radio receiving set has been presented to the reconstruction home for infantile paralysis in Ithaca, N. Y., by the local volume of the Forty and Eight, the fun making division of the American Legion. On the first night the set was installed J. A. Z. Mundy, grand chief de gare of the society in New York, broadcast a message to the veterans in the home from a New York city station.

Wants Ex-Service Men to Be Scout Leaders

Characterizing the boy scout movement as an "incubator for the manpower of the nation," Les Pierce, a Legionnaire of Toledo, urged on his comrades the necessity for continued efforts in behalf of the youngsters. He asked that every post furnish as many scout leaders from the ex-service men as possible, these men to attend a scout school for instructors.

Insures New Members

An accident insurance policy with every membership card issued by the post is the provision that members of the Hilton C. Brown, Jr., post of the American Legion in Indianapolis make for the future. Some of the members have already announced that their policy will be made payable to the post in case of death by accident. The policies are paid from post funds, and have been secured from a national casualty insurance company.

Post to Have New Home

In order that men of the Legion will accomplish their building fund in Darlington, S. C., R. E. Allen, a local merchant has offered to give the Legionnaires 1 per cent of his gross sales for the year. The post possesses a fine lot, the donation of other Darlington citizens, and it is expected that other merchants will follow the lead of Mr. Allen in providing funds for erection of a post home.

Long Pony Ride

Undertaking a long, overland ride from Marysville, Calif., to St. Paul, Minn., "Tex" Kykendall, a former Texas ranger, is to represent the Golden state at the national convention of the American Legion. Kykendall's departure will be a feature of the Legion's Fourth of July celebration in Marysville, and he will visit Legion posts along his route as he travels to the 1924 mecca of Legionnaires.

Uniforms for Legion Band

Uniforms for the Torrington (Conn.) American Legion band have been purchased at a cost of $1,800, according to post officers. The coat is of marine blue, with Legion buttons, caps and shoulder straps of yellow; yellow silk fourragere, black Sam Brown belt, breeches with yellow stripe, and blue cap. The band has already secured a number of engagements.

The time is not far off when every wife and mother will keep a bottle of ROYAL DIGESTO on hand for emergency purposes. It relieves indigestion and stomach disorders. On sale at Connelly Drug Co., Kingston Central Pharmacy, Ten Broeck's Drug Store, McBride's Drug Stores. —Advertisement.

Cows Peacefully Graze Where Once War Ruled

Southern Denmark has many things to show to the stranger within her gates, and in the south of Seeland, best known of the three islands, ferry-bridged, which, together with the rest of the portion of Schleswig Holstein, make up the modern kingdom of Denmark—one may visit a model Danish dairy farm, which has its base in a sixteenth century fortified farmhouse, says the Christian Science Monitor.

At the quaint old farm of Holmergaard a stone taken from the ancient archway gives the date of the building as 1571, and, though the whitewash which covers the masonry hides its rugged outlines in part, still where the water of the moat laps the foundations one can still see the massive forms of the old stones.

There are many of these old fortified farms in Funen and Seeland, now happily requiring no more to guard them against aggressions, but in olden days they were little forts in themselves, sheltering in troublous times the whole neighborhood and storing provisions enough for a siege in their capacious granaries. The outbuildings of Holmergaard are immense, built around a great quadrangle paved with cobblestones.

Making Writers Efficient

A "scheme of work" for writing short stories is given by Max Bontor in "Fiction Writers on Fiction Writing," the short story analysis compiled by Arthur Sullivan Hoffman, from answers to a questionnaire he sent more than 100 authors concerning their creative methods. The scheme is:

1. Be sure an idea is worth developing from a "human interest" standpoint.
2. Develop the climax first.
3. Start off the characters like a bunch of obstacle racers and bring them to the climax as quickly, but as logically, as possible.
4. Write tersely at first, expanding where advisable—rather than write voluminously and chop out.
5. Write nothing that won't at least put a grain of weight into the final wallop.

"Ringed" by Auto Tire

Frank Kaie was gathering corn on his farm near Cedar Rapids, Ia., when something weighty struck him. He discovered that an auto tire had been hurled through the air and made a "ringer" over his body. Looking up, he saw an auto, driven by an unidentified motorist, rapidly disappearing down the road minus one tire.

COWBIRDS

"My friend and I," said Mr. Cowbird, "thought we would like to have a wedding feast."

He said this to Mrs. Cow as she sat in the meadow. Mrs. Cow stood up and said:

"Then if you would like to have a wedding feast why do you not have one?"

"Just dropping the hint, Mrs. Cow, just dropping the hint."

Mrs. Cow smiled a little. She did not smile much for she was a cow and a cow couldn't be expected to show great joy.

Nor could a cow be expected to laugh and joke and make merry as some others might do.

It was enough that she gave good milk and enjoyed the meadow.

"My friend and I," said Mr. Cowbird, "have just been wedded."

"We did not go to any fuss. I wore just what I have on—this simple suit of black with a black hat and collar and waistcoat."

"It is a handsome suit and shines most magnificently. But it is not gay. Simple and quiet and handsome."

"To be sure, there are greenish touches to my suit—my feathered touches I call these touches for they gleam in the sunlight."

"My friend, Mrs. Cowbird, just wore a plain little suit of gray."

"Don't fuss for me, my dear," I told her. "You are a charming cowbird as it is."

Mrs. Cowbird looked at her mate now. He was certainly handsome and it was good of him not to be ashamed of her. She had been quite delighted to have heard herself spoken of as Mrs. Cowbird.

It was the first time she had been called that.

"You know how we are, Mrs. Cow? We aren't great for extravagance."

"Why build a home nest, is what we say, when we can lay the egg somewhere else?"

"Oh, yes, Mrs. Cowbird, of the same opinion. She has even picked out the very nest where she expects to lay an egg."

"She saw a warbler's nest which she thought would do all right."

"Some day when Mrs. Warbler isn't looking, or is out, she will lay the egg there."

"We don't care about a little home."

WHAT TO HAVE FOR DINNER

"Since Eve ate apples, much depends on dinner." The planning of good dinners suitable to one's means and family is no small problem.

Filet of Beef With Vegetables.—Wipe a three-pound filet and remove the fat. Put a half-pound of butter in a hot frying pan and when melted add the filet and browned, then turn occasionally until well cooked—about thirty minutes.

Remove the meat to a serving dish and garnish with a cupful each of peas and carrots cut into fancy shapes. Season well and add one-half pound of mushrooms sautéed in a little butter. Serve with:

Brown Mushroom Sauce.—Mushrooms are to be had for the gathering these days, as the fields are full of the delicious vegetable until frost comes. Take one-fourth cupful of the fat from the frying pan, add five table-spoonfuls of flour and stir until well browned; add a cupful of soup stock, a third of a cupful of mushroom liquor and one-half pound of mushrooms which have been cooked in butter five minutes. Season with salt and pepper; just before serving add the remaining butter in the frying pan. The liquor of mushrooms is obtained by cooking the stems in cold water to cover. Simmer until reduced to one-third of a cupful.

Braised Beef.—Try out two thin slices of salt pork and remove the scraps. Wipe three pounds of beef cut from the rump and sprinkle with salt and pepper and flour; brown the surface in hot fat, turning carefully not to pierce the meat and allow the juices to escape. Place on a trivet in a deep earthen pan or baking dish and surround with the following vegetables: One-fourth of a cupful each of onion, turnip, celery and carrot cut fine; add a teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of peppercorns. Cover with three cupfuls of boiling water and cover closely, cooking four hours. Baste the meat every half hour, keeping the liquid at the simmering point. Serve with a brown sauce made from the liquor in the pan.

"HOPPERBURN"

Sometimes Serious Trouble On Potatoes—Insects Come From Apples.

Tipburn or "hopperburn" of potatoes may occasion serious losses if effective steps are not taken to combat the insects which cause the trouble, according to specialists at the New York State Agricultural Experiment station at Geneva. Leafhoppers are chiefly responsible for the apparent "burning" of potato vines during July and August, it is said, the insects migrating from young apple trees which they infest earlier in the season. Long-continued dry weather seems to aggravate the trouble.

The Experiment Station workers have studied the life history and behavior of potato leafhoppers for some time and have found that the insects leave the young apple trees upon which they have been feeding as the potatoes appear above the ground, and that from then on they may be found in all stages of development until the end of the season. The pest is a small, greenish insect, which is very active in its movements and usually congregates on the under sides of the leaves.

Effective control of leafhoppers was secured in the Station experiments by the use of a spray containing 5 pounds of copper sulfate or blue vitriol, 10 pounds of lime, 2½ pounds of powdered lead arsenate, and 50 gallons of water. Three or four applications are needed and the spray must be applied to the under sides of the leaves for real protection.

Causes of Earthquakes

What produces earthquakes is a problem not yet settled to the satisfaction of the scientist. Tremors of the earth may be caused by explosion of mines, falling in of caves, slipping of rock strata and many other movements of the earth, but these do not explain the great shocks satisfactorily. Earthquakes are likened with volcanic activity, but which of the two is cause and which effect is not known.

YOUNG BANDIT SOBS PRAYER MOTHER TAUGHT.

Mad Youth Is Shot to Death While Attempt- ing a Holdup.

Los Angeles, Cal.—A boy bandit, in a flash of a moment of realization, was the first shock and pain of grief that had brought the universe crashing on him in a blaze of colored light and crushing his life out with falling weight, formed his lips to words and said:

"Gentle Jesus—"

Seven men, standing about a card table with the smoke still curling from the throat of a pistol in the hands of the last word and took the curse of a "hard guy" in the words of fate, says a copyright dispatch to the Detroit News.

But when they told her about it, the boy's mother knew—for the words brought back memories of the evenings when he knelt at her knee, and his faltering childish voice repeated for her:

"Gentle Jesus, meek and mild
Look down upon a little child—
Her Only Consolation.

She knew that her boy had died with a prayer on his lips, and therein was her consolation. For she believed that the prayer, the cry of a dying heart, winged its way to the high

KILLS HIMSELF SO WIFE CAN WED RIVAL

Said Insurance Would Give Them Start.

Detroit, Mich.—To open the way for her to marry the man she wanted, and in so doing furnishing $1,000 to help out his successor until he can find a job, Joseph Novicki, thirty-six, of 2563 Hammond avenue, so loved his wife that he took his own life.

Mrs. Tekla Novicki, twenty-eight, who admits she is in love with Tony Lausicki, a boarder, appeared pleased at Joseph's solution of the "eternal triangle" and intimated that she probably would marry Tony.

The domestic crisis, which had been shaping itself for some weeks, came to a head when Joseph came home to find his wife in tears. Weeping, she told him that she was in love with the boarder, Tony, whom Joseph had kicked out of the house a few days before.

But Tony had no money and no job. He, Joseph, had a job paying $10 a day. Therefore, Tony wouldn't hear of her leaving Joseph, because then neither could eat.

Joseph, in deep thought, entered the bedroom. A few minutes after he announced he had taken poison.

"The $1,000 insurance will enable you to be married," were his dying words.

But Mrs. Novicki believes happiness is farther from her reach than before. She realizes she loved her husband after all. She does not care for Tony now, and consequently she is heartbroken.

"I wish Joe were back again," is all she has to say.

Grieves to Death When His Wife Disappears

Atlantic City, N. J.—After grieving for weeks over the mysterious disappearance of his wife, from whom he never before had been separated in their fifty years of happy married life, Peter K. Palmer of 405 Trinity avenue, this city, died in the home that had become desolate to him.

Palmer, who was seventy-two years old, refused to be comforted by friends. He would not eat and sat virtually every night watching the front door of his home for the return of his life companion. He was found dead in his chair facing the door recently.

Mrs. Mary Palmer, seventy, the wife, disappeared on May 8. She told her husband she was going to Philadelphia to attend the funeral of a brother, but she may never have arrived in that city, as a thorough search by police failed to reveal any trace of her there.

The Atlantic City police combed every section of this city at the request of neighbors of the Palmers, who were touched by the aged man's grief.

Seals Menace Salmon Fishery of Pacific

Vancouver, B. C.—Destruction of one-sixth to one-third of the average spring salmon pack in the Fraser river by hair seals has caused local fishermen to fear the fish will become extinct and a large revenue be lost.

So clever are the seals that it is a race between them and the fishermen every time a bobbing cork on the net shows a salmon has struck it. The seals generally win.

Wolf-like, a seal goes for the throat of a fish, and usually a head is all that is left in the net. Fishermen have tried spreading a "blind" net, to protect the actual fishing net, but the seals, evidently learning the trick, drive salmon into the net to make capture easier.

Not only do seals live on salmon, but when their hunger is appeased, they kill for sport, tossing the fish out of the water as a cat plays with a mouse. A seal can throw a 80-pound salmon clear of the water, the fisherman declares.

Boy's Bow and Arrow Kills Trapped Bear

Orono, Me.—With three steel-tipped arrows, shot from a powerful six-foot bow of his own making, George W. Jacobs of Brockton, Mass., a freshman at the University of Maine, recently killed a 250-pound bear in the woods, ten miles north of Amherst. The bear was caught by one paw in a steel trap.

Jacobs, who acquired skill with this weapon as a boy scout several years ago, shot five arrows and three took effect. He made the expedition in company with Harry Jordan, veteran guide of East Eddington, as a result of the taunts of fellow students, who called him "Robin Hood" and laughed at his insistent claims concerning the effectiveness of his bow and arrow.

His exploit is expected to stimulate interest in archery in the university.

Fox Killed by Lightning

North Powder, Ore.—This section was visited by an electrical storm recently which did some damage. The Eastern Oregon Light and Power company substation was set on fire but was saved by the use of fire extinguishers. A silver fox, valued at $1,000, was killed by lightning.

A Precious Hen!

Minneapolis.—Police are trying to learn the antecedents of a common, ordinary hen bought live-weight in the market the other day whose gizzard yielded three emeralds and four .22-caliber cartridge shells. The find was made by Mrs. Betty Smilow. The stones are of considerable value, jewelers say.

"Hoedown" and "Breakdown"

The word "hoedown" originated among negroes in the South and was common even before the Civil war. Nobody has been able to trace its origin. It means a noisy, riotous or disorderly dance, and especially a peculiar dance of the colored people. The word "breakdown" is used in the same sense.

Shameful!

What a shame! The notice which caught little Emma's eye. "What a shame!" she exclaimed indignantly. "Fancy not letting the poor little birds build their nests where they like!"—London Daily

Can Mend Without Needle or Thread

DARNING without needle or thread is a specialty of Miss Concanon of the Real Silk Institute, located at Indianapolis, Indiana. She knows how to forestall runners before they get a chance to run. It's all in a trick of the fingers, she says.

Almost every time a pair of hose is worn a thread becomes pulled, either in putting them on or in the wearing. Small blotches are readily made by chapped hands or rough skin, the prong of a ring or a hang-nail. Chairs with rough edges are a constant menace to the silk-clad ankle. The pulled thread mends the appearance of the hose and invariably becomes a runner, if not removed. But the removing process isn't a thread-and-needle proposition.

One little pull just the right way and the cloud vanishes like magic. The proper method of handling the stocking for needleless mending, Miss Concanon is demonstrating in the accompanying picture. With one hand inserted in the stocking the clouded place stretched firmly over the end of one finger—the rest is easy, she says. By moving the fingers back and forth crosswise of the stocking under the pulled thread the blemish can be removed nine times out of ten. If the stocking is all silk there is no danger of punching the finger through, as the silk thread is the strongest of all known fibers.

"The Romance Of Business"

Also the Romance of Root Beer, Related to Kingston Rotarians by the Advertising Manager of Hires Company.

In his address, "The Romance of Business," given before the Rotary Club at the Y. M. C. A. today, Russell Green, advertising manager of the Hires Root Beer Company of Philadelphia, Pa., said:

There is romance in every man's job if he will look for it. A great deal depends upon the attitude you assume toward the job you have to do. Look upon your daily work as something more than a bread and butter proposition. Carry into it something of enthusiasm, search for the romance in it, and then you are in a fair way to gain success.

In discussing advertising methods and ways and means of building up a successful business, Mr. Green vividly pictured the triangle of business. The base of the triangle must be the product. Make it worth while. Know that it is worth boosting. No amount of advertising will bring success to a company or business that does not have a real product as the basis of its activities.

One arm of the triangle of business is the personnel of the organization. Build it up. You employees know what it means to have the proper sort of men on your payroll. Make it worth their while. Seek to instill in them a pride in your business. On the other side of the triangle I would put service. Give the best of service to your customers. Let them know that they are receiving your consideration in every business deal. One of the biggest things that makes for success is that little word "service."

And so many are failing in this respect. The employer is failing to serve his employees; the employees fail to serve their employer; and both are failing to take advantage of the opportunity to serve themselves and the public.

The Rev. William Nelson, of the Kiwanis Club, in a brief and witty address, urged the purchase of tickets for the Junior Chautauque.

A letter of sympathy on the death of his father was directed to be written to Henry Nesslau.

Visitors were present from Orange and Paterson, N. J., and Youngstown, Ohio.

Rendigs Admits Getting $1,000

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, July 30.—Charles W. Rendigs, testifying today in the Fallon jury hearing trial before Federal Judge George W. McClinton, directly accused Fallon of giving him money to use his influence for a verdict favorable to the defendants in the Dur-sell-Gregory mail frauds case in 1922. Rendigs, under examination by Assistant District Attorney Millard, declared that he met Fallon in response to a telephone call, and after shaking hands with him, "found a $1,000 bill in my hand."

"The Gregory boys are fine fellows; they're friends of mine and I want you to do what you can for them," Rendigs said was Fallon's greeting.

Rendigs was a juror in the mail frauds case. The present trial resulted from alleged corrupt methods used in the previous court action.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Edwin B. Van Aken died at St. Luke's Hospital in New York city on Tuesday evening. He is survived by his wife who was Miss Mary Starling, and one daughter, Mrs. William Schryver, of this city. The body will be brought to this city and the funeral, which will be private, will be held on Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of his daughter with interment in Walkill Cemetery.

Elizabeth Amelia Schwab died Tuesday evening at the home of her brother, Frank Schwab, 80 O'Neill street. Besides her brother with whom she made her home, she is survived by another brother, John Schwab, and two sisters, Carrie Schwab and Mrs. Merchant Smith, all of this city. Funeral from 80 O'Neill street on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment in Montepose Cemetery.

The funeral of Elizabeth A. Kenney was held Tuesday afternoon from the Port Ewen Reformed Church. The Rev. Mr. Polhemus and the Rev. Mr. Luther officiated at the services and Miss Millie Nelzer sang a solo. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The bearers were Henry Deane, B. H. Houghtaling, Charles Neice, John Monroe, Alexander Sevor and Harry Sevor. Interment was in the Port Ewen Cemetery.

Miss Ruth C. Edmonston died this morning at her home, No. 139 Edmonston street, after an illness of several weeks. The funeral arrangements will be announced later. Miss Edmonston is survived by two brothers, Thomas H. Edmonston, superintendent of the City Home, and Charles Edmonston, with whom she made her home. Miss Edmonston up until last October had served the commissioners of charity as matron of the City Home. She was a woman who was held in high esteem by all who knew her.

The funeral of Frederick W. Reinhardt, who died suddenly on Saturday, was held Tuesday morning, from his late residence, 161 Tremper avenue, and from St. Peter's Church where a high Mass of requiem was celebrated for the repose of his soul by the Rev. John P. Neumann. During the offertory John Raible sang "Pie Jesu" and at the conclusion of the Mass Mrs. John Schwalbach sang "Nearer My God to Thee." The funeral was largely attended by the relatives and friends of the deceased and the floral offerings were very beautiful and numerous. The bearers were John Winter, Joseph Winter, Henry Bruck and Lewis Urmor. The members of the Holy Name Society met at the home of the deceased on Monday evening conducted services. Interment was in St. Peter's Cemetery.

The funeral of Marge Fay was held this morning, from her late home on Brigham street, East Kingston, at 9:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock from St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Thomas Larkin. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the deceased. The floral offerings were beautiful and profuse, testifying to the high esteem in which Miss Fay was held by her many friends. Miss Fay was a Sunday School teacher for a great many years at St. Colman's Church and she was loved by the children in her charge. As the body was being borne from the church, the choir sang very feelingly "Nearer My God to Thee." The funeral cortege, which was one of the largest ever entering St. Mary's Cemetery, was accompanied by the Rev. Thomas Larkin, who gave the final absolution at the grave.

Orchard Information

KEEP DISEASES AND INSECTS IN CHECK

One of the most recent circulars being distributed by the college of agriculture to fruit growers and other interested persons is entitled, "Directions for Spraying Fruits in Illinois," and takes up in detail the problems of keeping insects and fungous diseases in check in the farm orchard. It is an extensive revision of an older circular of the same title and contains considerable new and up-to-date information.

The insects which the farmer has to keep in check in his orchard may be divided into two classes: sucking and chewing, according to the new publication. The sucking insects, such as San Jose scale and aphids, commonly known as plant lice, get their food from the sap of plants. They are kept in check by contact sprays which must hit the insects themselves. Lime sulphur, either liquid or dry, oil emulsion, and miscible oils are used against scale insects, and nicotine sulphate, a commercial tobacco preparation, and oil emulsions against aphids.

The chewing insects, such as the codling moth, plum curculio, and cankerworm, actually eat the fruit or foliage. They are destroyed by poisoning their food. Lead arsenate is the standard material used against insects of this class.

Examples of fungous diseases of Illinois fruits are brown rot of stone fruits, apple scab, apple blotch and black rot of grapes. Fungi are in reality plants living on the fruit, leaves, stems or roots. Infection spreads by means of spores, which, when wet for a long enough time, germinate and enter the surface. The fungus characteristic of the disease then are produced. In order to control the fungus, sprays must cover the susceptible parts of the plants throughout the period of infection. After the spores have germinated and the fungus has invaded the tissues, spraying will not eradicate the disease.

Lime sulphur, self-bottled lime sulphur, and bordeaux are standard materials used to control fungous diseases in this state. On account of its easier preparation, the new dry-mix lime sulphur line is likely to replace self-bottled lime sulphur. For spraying small orchards or fruit gardens commercial lime-sulphur, either liquid or dry, is recommended rather than homemade lime-sulphur for the sake of both time and convenience.

The new circular discusses the amount of spray to use in controlling different insects and diseases and gives a complete schedule for spraying apples, peaches, pears, cherries, plums, brambles, currants and gooseberries, grapes and strawberries. It also gives complete directions for making and mixing the various sprays.

The new circular is No. 277 and may be obtained free by writing the Illinois College of Agriculture.

Leaf Rollers Do Great Injury to Fruit Trees

Increased activity of the fruit tree leaf-roller is reported in the eastern apple-producing sections. This pest is entirely too well known in western producing sections, and wherever apples are produced in any quantity the economic loss may amount to a considerable figure. It is reported that as much as 40 per cent of the fruit may be injured so that it drops prematurely, and half of what is left may be so deformed that it is not salable. Loss of an entire crop has been reported occasionally.

Spraying is effective, but only against eggs and young caterpillars. The miscible oils have been used in some cases with good effect. The regular poison spray applied to apple trees at the cluster bud stage—or the so-called pre-blossom stage of blossom development—will protect both leaves and fruit against this new pest. It is really only the man who neglects his orchard spraying who needs to fear the new invasion of apple pests.

Horticultural Facts

It is a very easy matter to start a vineyard and requires but a few years to have the vines in bearing.

In connection with spraying, the trees should be well pruned and all diseased limbs and mummified fruits destroyed.

Manure distributed in the spring often remains an annoyance to those who work in the orchard later in the season.

The delayed dormant spray must be applied at just the right time. Be sure the spray rig is in trim.

Usually elaborate spraying equipment is not needed unless orcharding is conducted on quite an extensive scale.

There seems to be some variety of grapes suited to the climate of every section of the country. Why, is it, then, that we find large sections where grapevines are limited to one or two, just for family use?

First to Use Blank Verse

Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, who was beheaded in 1547, was the first English writer to use blank verse in translating the second and fourth books of Aeneid, and also introduced the sonnet into English literature.

Sweetbreads

Sweetbread is the name of the thymus or pancreas of an animal (especially a calf) used for food, the former being the throat sweetbread or neck sweetbread, the latter the stomach sweetbread.

Forest Fire Claims Victim

By Telegram to The Freeman. San Francisco, July 30.—A forest fire which has already claimed one victim in the Truckee river canyon today was threatening the surrounding territory this afternoon.

Fire fighters from Truckee and Reno were being hurried to the scene to assist 100 men already on the fire line. The Southern Pacific Railroad has sent two fully equipped trains to the scene.

Carl Ross, superintendent of a paper mill at Floriston, was killed when he was struck by a rock rolling down an embankment while fighting the fire.

Boys' Competent To Plead Guilty

be observed. The lawyers remained in front of his bench arguing but the judge retired to his chambers.

Quote Many State Courts. Marshall dug into the authorities and precedents in the courts of California, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Nebraska, all of which dealt with the question of pleading insanity in murder trials. He quoted long excerpts from decisions of judges, but all of them dealt with "insanity" which Judge Caverly repeatedly had observed was "not an issue here."

The court listened patiently, but there was no indication that he would change his opinion regarding the submission of alienists' testimony in this famous case.

At one point of the argument Benjamin Bachrach of defense counsel remarked that "we have heard enough authorities," whereupon Samuel Ettleson, former corporation lawyer of Chicago, who has been identified with the case through his long friendship with the Franks family, said:

"Oh, let them go ahead, we have all day."

Leopold tugged at Darrow's coat tails.

"Say," he whispered, "what the hell has that guy got to do with the case? He is not an attorney of record here."

Leopold does not like Ettleson. Darrow waved Leopold down.

When the recess was over, Marshall of the state's attorney's office continued to read authorities in defense of the state contention. Caverly listened quietly.

Jury Necessary, Says Prosecution. This tactical victory for the young collegians, however, was immediately placed in jeopardy by the state's attorneys, who protested Judge Caverly's decision bitterly.

They said he was exceeding his authority in permitting such testimony, that any decision he ultimately renders will be void, and they demanded repeatedly that "if the question of sanity or insanity is to be considered here, then it is the court's duty to call a jury to decide it."

Leaf Rollers Do Great Injury to Fruit Trees

Increased activity of the fruit tree leaf-roller is reported in the eastern apple-producing sections. This pest is entirely too well known in western producing sections, and wherever apples are produced in any quantity the economic loss may amount to a considerable figure. It is reported that as much as 40 per cent of the fruit may be injured so that it drops prematurely, and half of what is left may be so deformed that it is not salable. Loss of an entire crop has been reported occasionally.

Spraying is effective, but only against eggs and young caterpillars. The miscible oils have been used in some cases with good effect. The regular poison spray applied to apple trees at the cluster bud stage—or the so-called pre-blossom stage of blossom development—will protect both leaves and fruit against this new pest. It is really only the man who neglects his orchard spraying who needs to fear the new invasion of apple pests.

Horticultural Facts

It is a very easy matter to start a vineyard and requires but a few years to have the vines in bearing.

In connection with spraying, the trees should be well pruned and all diseased limbs and mummified fruits destroyed.

Manure distributed in the spring often remains an annoyance to those who work in the orchard later in the season.

The delayed dormant spray must be applied at just the right time. Be sure the spray rig is in trim.

Usually elaborate spraying equipment is not needed unless orcharding is conducted on quite an extensive scale.

There seems to be some variety of grapes suited to the climate of every section of the country. Why, is it, then, that we find large sections where grapevines are limited to one or two, just for family use?

First to Use Blank Verse

Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, who was beheaded in 1547, was the first English writer to use blank verse in translating the second and fourth books of Aeneid, and also introduced the sonnet into English literature.

Sweetbreads

Sweetbread is the name of the thymus or pancreas of an animal (especially a calf) used for food, the former being the throat sweetbread or neck sweetbread, the latter the stomach sweetbread.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, July 30.—Speculative stocks were maintained at high price levels today largely by the buoyancy of United States Steel Common, which, under an enormous volume of transactions sold up to 106 or about 3 points less than its best previous price of the year. Its former high of 109 was made in February. Then, industries were booming, steel production was at the highest since the end of the war.

The effect of the general shrinkage in the domestic industry is seen in the low earnings and the passing of dividends on representative oil and independent steel companies, and present markets in securities are buoyed up, not by present performance but by the prospect of better business.

More of the realizing sales, which have gradually been filtering into the market, were in evidence today and active stocks which have been moving ahead quite briskly, were held back by profit-taking. The bullish demonstration in industrials at the opening of the market, featured by one point overnight gains in prices of prominent stocks, furnished a good background for professional profit taking and subsequent irregularity of prices showed that this was taking place quite generally.

Rails gradually retraced their steps to lower price ground and such active issues as Erie, New York Central, Lehigh Valley, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, St. Paul Preferred and Northern Pacific, were a point lower on the average. Active on the other side of the market were Atlantic Seaboard, in new high ground at 133, and Nickel Plate and Peru Marquette, in new high ground today above 103.

Individual stocks in the tobacco, rubber, copper and specialty groups forged ahead briskly in the early trading but others in the same group felt the effects of either short selling or profit working sales. American Can went forward more than a point, before declining below yesterday's lowest level.

Oil stocks had no incentive in view of the new wave of price cutting that is now sweeping over the country, and Standard and high grade independent oil shares declined with the rest today.

Noted Woodstock Woman Dead

Successful in Business, Law, Real Estate Speculation, She Retired to Quiet Life in Catskill Mountain Village.

An unusual woman was lost to Woodstock Monday in the death of Edith A. Reiffert. She was 63, but nevertheless had been a successful stock broker, a successful real estate speculator, a successful lawyer, a successful public official, and a successful doer of uplifting, neighborly things. She was successful, but she had never lost the common touch. She was an incessant seeker and savor of four-leaf clovers; she was a merry consultant of the oracle; and yet, she lined her shelves with books of science. She had the big encyclopedia, she had the "little classics."

She was most effeminate and yet she had the robust courage of a man. Altogether, she was a wonderful combination of delightful contradictions. From an abstract legal brief or the planning of a business deal with driving shrewdness, she could plunge knee deep into a field of daisies, or sit calmly by and have mountain laurel brought to her. She could indulge good natured banter while her clicking knitting needles fashioned a dainty garment for some child. She could be equally at home regarding a left-handed tangle, or with shipping milk to babies, or counseling a grand-needing type in the New York Training Schools for Girls at Hudson.

She was inordinately successful, and yet she had begun where humbly sits at the last round of the ladder. She was 63; and yet she was not known to the bar until 35, when she became Edith A. Reiffert, LL. B., one of the early young women graduates of the University of the City of New York to be admitted to practice. Member of the American Bar Association, founder and first president of the Society of American Graduates of German Descent, president of the Wortham Realty Company (her parents had come from Wortham on the Main)—these were a few distinctions that followed. She had been well known in New York, at Albany, then at Washington, in London, Berlin and Paris. In the course of a few years she slipped quietly out of the moving mass and retired to Woodstock. Last April she responded to the president's call and delivered the Jefferson Day address in the League Hall. In her passing, she has left for the village provisions which, long after her day, will help stimulate and realize the better ideals of citizenship.

At a Christian Science funeral from her home this morning, Miss Marion Eames sang "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me." Miss Reiffert was interred in Woodlawn Cemetery, New York city.

Birth of Christ

The Christian era was first figured out in about 532 by a monk named Dionysius Exiguus. At that time the actual date of Christ's birth was only a matter of speculation. Later, when the calendar took more definite form, the birth of Christ was put on the 25th of December, but it was found to be impractical to change the date of the era which was already fairly well established. As a matter of fact, it is now believed that Jesus was born three or four years before the beginning of the era known as the Christian. So we have the anomalous fact that Christ was born about four years B. C. But the exact date of Christ's birth is unknown.

Lion of Lucerne

The Lion of Lucerne is a famous piece of sculpture by Albert Thorwaldsen, commemorating the heroism and devotion of nearly eight hundred Swiss guards, who died to save Louis XVI. in the attack on the Tuileries, August 10, 1792. The colossal figure of the crouching lion, transfixed and dying, but still faithfully defending the shield of France, is carved in a recess in the face of an upright, vine-draped rock in a little park at Lucerne, Switzerland. A commemorative inscription, with the names of the officers killed, is cut in the rock.

HERO'S BURIAL PLACE IS IN CHICAGO PARK

Pleasure Spot Holds Grave of David Kennison.

Many of the thousands of visitors to Lincoln park have discovered for themselves near the Wisconsin street entrance a granite boulder set with a bronze tablet designating the spot as approximately the burial place of David Kennison.

It has been seventy-two years since Kennison's death, when, at the age of one hundred fifteen years, three months and seventeen days, he was the last survivor of the Boston "tea party." Now his grave tablet with the inscription, is the only reminder of a life that was picturesque in more ways than one.

Kennison was an early settler in Chicago, as well as a veteran of the Revolutionary war and the War of 1812. He came here in 1846, when he was 109 years old. Since his fighting days he had been crushed by a cannon ball fired at a military review, and had only a pension of $8 a month to maintain him. Nevertheless he started west looking for thrills and fortune.

For a year or so after coming to the young metropolis on the lake shore, Kennison worked as a day laborer. Then his fame as a "pioneer" at the Boston "tea party" having spread, he obtained the post of lecturer at Mooney's museum, 73 West Lake street. Besides introducing Prater's Genuine Virginia minstrels and discussing the wax figures and other strange exhibits, he gave a lecture at each performance on the dumping of tea in Boston harbor.

Kennison was made manager of the museum in 1848 and he announced that to the public in the following manner:

"I have taken the museum in this city, which I was obliged to do in order to get a comfortable living, as my pension is so small it scarcely affords the comforts of life. If I live until the 17th of November, 1848, I shall be 112 years old, and I intend making a donation party on that day at the museum. I have fought in several battles for my country. All I ask of the generous public is to call at the museum on the 17th of November, which is my birthday, and donate to me what they think I deserve."

The aged patriot not only lived to be host at his donation party, but almost four years beyond then. His death occurred February 24, 1852. The funeral was held from the First Methodist church and the procession was the most imposing military turnout seen in Chicago up to that time. His body was buried in the cemetery that then was situated in the present park. After the cemetery had been moved the Illinois chapter of the Sons of the Revolution, and the Daughters of the American Revolution marked his grave with the boulder and tablet—Chicago News.

Lost Mines in Arizona

Of all the legends of buried treasure, the most persistent is the one about the lost gold mines of Arizona. Only the Indians are supposed to possess the secret of this baffling mystery, although the story has been circulated for more than a century.

That there once were mines in the region is indicated by references found in early Spanish diaries and by the tales passed down through several generations of natives who were compelled to dig the ore as slaves of their conquerors. The chief evidence in support of the tradition is the altar of the San Xavier mission, not far from Tucson. It is described as being "inlaid with virgin gold." Mission records show that the precious metal was brought from Canada del Oro where it was mined by Indians under the direction of Spanish priests.

But no trace now exists of the diggings, and the old trail over which the gold is said to have been carried by pack mules disappears abruptly in the sands.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

One Man Army

The interest with which the progress of the Everest expedition is being followed is yet another proof that England is a sporting nation, declares the London Sphere. We all wish it well—and shall continue to follow it the more keenly if its future bulletins are as entertaining as the first sent home from Phari Dzong by Gen. C. G. Bruce. This is a model of readability and includes one little vignette, which throws a felicitous light on militarist human nature the world over:

At the frontier, on crossing into independent Sikkim, we were met by the guard, a single policeman. When he had finished the necessary official documents: "Right and salute," roared the guard at himself, and duly saluted with the right hand: "Left turn," he bellowed, and turned to the left: "Quick march," he shrieked and straightway took himself off.

Automatic Foghorn

Few people realize the extent to which human life is safeguarded by automatic devices, Popular Mechanics Magazine remarks. Among the latest of these is a foghorn valve, controlled by a few strands of human hair. The hairs are stretched across a wooden frame, and the ends are fastened to a series of sensitive springs. When a fog comes up the hairs become moist and expand. This sets the horn in operation. After the fog is dissipated, the hairs contract and shut off the horn.

Usher Girl May Be Chosen Queen

Usher Girl in Catskill Mountain Section Eligible to Enter Beauty Contest at Stamford—Winner Will Represent City at Atlantic City Show.

Stamford-in-the-Catskills, July 30.—Every young lady in the Catskill Mountain section is invited to enter a big beauty contest to be held at Stamford-in-the-Catskills, Saturday, August 18, to determine the winner of the crown. "Queen of the Catskills" it was announced today. There will be 15 prizes, including rings, cups and ribbons, total amounting to several hundred dollars.

The winner of the first prize will represent this mountain section as "Queen of the Catskills" at the National Beauty Tournament during the American Beauty week at Atlantic City, September 2-6. Besides winning the distinction of beauty queen, the winner will have her transportation expenses paid to and from Atlantic City.

The young lady chosen queen at Stamford will be entertained following the selection as guest of honor for the week end at Churchville, largest of the hotels in the Catskills, at the invitation of H. H. Hulse, managing director of Churchville Hall, and Rexmere Club hotels. The public will have a chance to witness the judging at the Rexmere Casino swimming pool and it is expected the various candidates from each town will be well backed.

The honor will mean great distinction to the recipient as well as the towns in the Catskills she will represent. Motion picture and newspaper photographers are already applying to make pictures of the review at Rexmere Casino. Motion picture stars from New York will act as judges.

The territory from which girls will be entitled to compete was a problem, but it was finally decided to restrict competition to seven counties as follows: Delaware, Otsego, Schoharie, Ulster, Greene, Ulster and Sullivan. Persons from cities in this territory will have separate contests will not be admitted.

Alexander Ott of Miami, Florida, who has made these events popular in the south, is conducting the contest. He is director of water sports at Rexmere Club Casino swimming pool, where choice of the beautiful takes place. The seating capacity is to be enlarged for the review. It is expected thousands will be attracted to Stamford for the event.

Requirements for entrance state candidate must be between the ages of 16 and 35, of good character, and must submit a photograph of herself together with name and address not later than August 1 to Alexander Ott, Director, Beauty Contest, Churchville Hall, Stamford, N. Y. She must then appear at Rexmere Casino swimming pool in bathing costume Saturday afternoon, August 16, to take part in the review and judging. The same rules govern contests at Atlantic City and Miami will govern at Stamford.

A baby parade to find the most perfect baby in the same region of the Catskills will be conducted by Ott August 23. Eminent physicians will act as judges under the same rules as when "Jackie" Ott, seven-year old son of Alexander Ott, judged the most perfect baby among a thousand competitors. "Jackie" is at the Casino entertaining the summer colony this summer with his fancy diving and swimming.

LACK OF MINERALS IS CAUSE OF LOSS

The greatest profit in pork production comes from insuring the most rapid growth from the time the pigs are born. In this growth, bone development is of equal importance with the putting on of flesh, says L. A. Maynard of the New York state college of agriculture at Ithaca.

If the feed does not contain the essentials for making the proper bone, one result is a slower growth at a greater feed cost. Another result may be crippled hogs, due to the inability of the poorly nourished bony frame work to support the weight of flesh. Sometimes this trouble occurs in the young growing pigs; sometimes in the sow at farrowing time. At the state college at Cornell university, it is found that enough of the right minerals is the best way of insuring against cripples.

Pigs that eat a lot of tankage or fish meal do not suffer from a lack of minerals. On the other hand, rations made up largely of grains, garbage, and rations containing only limited amounts of skim milk, do not furnish enough of the bone-building minerals, lime and phosphorus. The following mixture will supply the needed minerals: Thirty parts of steam bone meal, 30 pounds of ground limestone, 20 pounds of salt, and 20 pounds of tankage.

The tankage flavors the mixture so that it is readily eaten in the self-feeder.

The inclusion of alfalfa in the ration also helps in developing the right kind of bone. Brood sows will eat it loose from a rack. But for young pigs it should be chopped and mixed as 5 per cent of the grain mixture.

Sunshine of Importance at Hog-Farrowing Time

The importance of having windows placed in the hog house so that the sun will shine into the beds at farrowing time is said by swine specialists to be of no small moment. To enable farmers to meet this need, E. R. Gross, professor of rural engineering at the New Jersey college of agriculture, New Brunswick, gives a simple rule based upon the angle of the sun's rays.

"A south window 2 feet above the floor will throw the rays of the sun on the floor 2 feet 2 inches away from the wall and one in the roof 6 feet above the floor would let them strike 6 feet 6 inches from a point directly beneath the window. Thus the first window will furnish sunshine to the pen on the south side of the house while the second window will supply it to the north pen. The exact location for the upper window must depend upon the width of the house. The wider the building, the higher must the upper window be placed.

"These figures are taken for noon, March 1, which is the beginning of the farrowing season. There is only a slight variation for north and south Jersey. The height and location of windows for any floor arrangement may easily be figured from the rule just given, which is, of course, applicable to buildings other than hog houses."

Lambs Bring More Money if Docked and Castrated

Ram lambs should be castrated when between one and four weeks of age. All lambs should be docked when they are one or two weeks old. Either docking irons or a sharp knife may be used for docking. The tail should be removed about one-half or three-quarters of an inch from the body. When docking irons are used the wound is sealed by the hot iron and this prevents bleeding.

When ram lambs are sent to market they are penalized severely, usually from two to four dollars per head. They do not feed out as well as a wether lamb and if light in weight cannot be sold as a feeder.

Live Stock Notes

Give the brood sow some tankage. It increases the size and hardness of the litter.

This is the time of year to take out feed insurance for live stock by planting those forage crops.

When prices of all live stock are low, including pure breeds, it is a good time to replace scrubs with pure breeds.

A little tankage or skim milk fed in the right proportion to corn will work wonders in supplying foods which hogs need.

When the pigs are a week or ten days old, they should be allowed access to a pasture of some sort if at all possible.

There is nothing to be gained by stunting on the feed, and letting the brood sow reduce herself to a shadow as many are inclined to do.

If necessary give the pigs a dose of worm medicine a week or two after weaning. Keep them well bedded, especially in cold weather, and provide well-ventilating quarters.

American Flyers Begin Last Lap

tween Scotland and Iceland getting all the details ready, steamed for Raykjavik, to be ready to welcome the six Americans when they arrive at that bleak point.

A considerable crowd was upon the rough landing stages while the mechanics were putting in the final touches upon the Americans' motors. Lt. Smith walked up and down looking first at the water and then at the sky, as he waited impatiently for the final word to go.

Los Angeles by September 1.

"Well, we are off at last," remarked Smith to the International News Service correspondent. "It has been an impatient wait for us but finally we are to cross the Atlantic. We believe that we have 99 per cent of the chances in our favor of making a safe crossing of the Atlantic and the American continent. We believe and are hopeful that we will finish according to our plans and our schedule. We believe that another month will find us back at Los Angeles. If weather conditions are good and our motors keep in working order we ought to be back at the starting point about the first of September.

No Fear Of Atlantic.

"The only trouble I see ahead for us is the jump between Greenland and Labrador. We are bound to encounter ice in that desolate track of sea, but we have weathered Alaskan blizzards and Asiatic monsoons so we feel more or less acclimated to anything the North Atlantic may hold in store for us. We do not really fear the ice, but we are anxious to see what effect it has upon flying conditions.

"I think I can safely say for my companions that, after the trip along the Aleutian Islands, off the Alaskan coast, there is little in the way of surprise for us no matter what kind of squall develops over the Atlantic.

Navy Plans Nearly Perfect.

"The plans of the United States Navy and especially Rear Admiral Magruder, of the light cruiser and destroyer divisions, are as near perfect as any human plans could be. I do not see how anything could possibly go amiss. We aviators are all in perfect health, and are keen for the adventure. We are willing to take a chance without taking a vain risk.

"We have had a wonderful trip trip across Europe, Asia and Africa. Everywhere we were greeted with the most friendly courtesies. The English have been amazing in their zeal to give us a good time and make us feel at home. It has all been too wonderful for words. We are sorry to leave England, but we must go home."

Britons Bid Good Luck.

After Smith had concluded speaking, he stepped into his plane. As he looked at the people upon the river banks, a grin spread over his face beneath his leather helmet. He waved his hands, took a huge bite out of a cake of chocolate he held in his hand, and was off. The engine started with a muffled roar, the propeller began kicking up the water into yellow foam and the American commander was off. He turned in his seat as though to get a final glimpse of this quaint English port, waved his chocolate in the air and then gave his whole attention to the business in hand.

"Good luck, Yankee," cried a Britisher from the docks.

Whole Town Turns Out.

After Smith boarded his plane, he encountered troubles at once. While "taxing" down the number, he got soaked to the skin with water kicked up by his motor propeller. The weather was warm and he did not mind it. Smith and his companions were in fine spirits. They were so confident all would go well, that they did not allow anything to worry them. They had eaten a light breakfast at 1 o'clock but all took big cakes of chocolate on board their planes with them. They stood upon the docks for a while as the mechanicians tinkered with the motors.

On both hands down along the river shore were stretches of wharves, quays and boats, pretty well filled up with spectators.

"Looks like the whole town had turned out," remarked Lieut. John Harding, Jr., one of the Americans.

The aviators had been the objects of popular interest ever since their arrival and were loaded down with mascots and good luck gifts.

"They sure want us to get home safe," commented Lieut. Leigh Wade. As two of the planes soared aloft a cheer went up from the spectators. The aviators did not respond. They were too busy watching their motors and the wind currents.

Flyers' Care in Eating.

Owing to the effect of high speed at great altitudes the aviators eat sparingly before they left. They were offered a second breakfast before they went on board their machine, but refused. They contented themselves with chocolate.

A number of British aviators—keen, lithe, alert young fellows, remained with the Americans until the last minute. It was plain to see that they had great admiration for the Yankee flyers. A few of the British went aloft in their own planes and accompanied the Americans on the way to Kirkwall.

All classes of British from laborers to socialists had but one thought—safety and good luck for the Americans.

Mist May Delay Arrival.

After rising, the aviators encountered mist which compelled them to take the longest route to the Orkneys. It was estimated here that it would require four or five hours for the flyers to reach Kirkwall.

Scotland Waits Expectantly.

Kirkwall, Scotland, July 30.—The rock-bound coast of this Scottish port was lined with spectators today awaiting the arrival of the United States army "round-the-world" flyers, who were due to arrive about 3 o'clock this afternoon. A big ovation was planned for the daring American aviators upon their arrival. The harbor was filled with fishing boats, many of which flew the American flag in honor of the occasion.

Off the coast the air was misty and it was feared the aviators might be delayed although the fishermen, who are used to dealing with fog, declared the weather was not bad enough to cause accident.

The United States cruiser Richmond, flagship of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, arrived off Houton Bay during the morning and the sailors were on the alert watching for the American flyers.

Major H. C. Davidson, military attache of the American embassy in London, is on board the Richmond.

May Drink Alcohol-Water.

All the necessary supplies to last the aviators on their jump to Iceland have been provided here. If they run short of water they can drink the water in the radiators. Grain alcohol has been mixed with the radiator water to keep it from freezing in the intense cold over the ocean.

According to Major Davidson, the chief concern of the pilots is to keep weight down to a minimum upon the planes.

The American destroyers Reid and Billingsley are stationed between Kirkwall and Brough to give aid to the aviators in case they are compelled to alight through motor trouble.

Traveling in 80% Fog.

On board United States Cruiser Richmond off Kirkwall, Scotland, July 30.—(via radio)—Misty weather prevailed over Houton Bay today but experienced naval men claimed that the weather was not thick enough to interfere with the United States Army "round-the-world" flyers who were due this afternoon on the first lap of their historic journey over the Atlantic. Seafaring men described the

A Sweeping Success!

"One-Shot" Lubrication System

AMERICA has never known an automotive success more sweeping and brilliant than that of the 1925 Cleveland Six.

More than a million have seen it! More than a million have marveled at the new convenience feature it introduces—the "One-Shot" Lubrication System.

No Grimy Hands

If you're tired of using the grease gun and oil can to silence squeaks and prevent worn parts—take ten minutes to inspect this exclusive patented feature. A plunger projects through the floor board. When you step on it all twenty-three vital parts of the car are lubricated. No grimy hands! No wasted hours! Simplicity itself!

Mileage Motor

One ride in the 1925 Cleveland Six will reveal the spectacular performance mastery of the Mileage Motor. Silent, smooth and economical.

(The One-Shot Lubrication System is licensed under Bowen Products Company patent.)

All Stars Led 8 to 2 in Fourth

When Rain Stopped Game Tuesday With Kingston Chevrolets—Cragin Outplayed Van Buren—Game Next Tuesday.

The Kingston All Stars were ahead in the fourth inning at the Athletic Field Tuesday evening, when the game with the Kingston Chevrolets was called on account of rain. The score was 8 to 2. The All Stars had their regular lineup. The Chevrolets had Moore and Glazer of the Cox-sackie Club in their lineup.

Hank Cragin was on the mound for the All Stars and allowed four hits. Dewey Van Buren was hammered for 11 hits.

Bob Lynch won the bidding honors, with a circuit blow, one of the longest ever hit on the field, a triple and a two bagger in his three trips to the plate.

On Tuesday evening next the same teams will meet again at the Athletic Field. Dick Williams will be on the mound for the All Stars in this game. The score:

TANNERSVILLE-RED SOX TEAM RELEASED FORSYTHE

Rube Forsythe, a former pitcher on the Colonials, but who signed up this year with the Poughkeepsie Red Sox, has been released. Rube's downfall is due to his determination to beat his former team mates, the Colonials. In three games the Schrickmen made Rube look poor.

England's Young Tennis Prodigy

England's newest tennis prodigy is Betty Nuthall. And Betty is a real prodigy, for she is only thirteen years old, yet her game is good enough to earn her the respect of such capable and experienced players as Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, Miss Elizabeth Ryan and other veterans who have been in the limelight of the tennis world for years. Mrs. Mallory has called her a "wonderful little player."

In the recent Middlesex championships played on the courts at Chiswick, Betty fought her way through the first two rounds and in the third round found herself facing the redoubtable Molla, who was a star on the courts before Betty was born. Mrs. Mallory took the first set, 6-1, while Betty was getting warmed up, but in the second set Betty was going great guns, and she gave Molla a battle that had the spectators cheering and acting roughly with their fists. She carried the game to six all, but could not stand the pace, and Mrs. Mallory won, 8-6.

Betty is a sturdily built girl, with golden hair that hangs down her back, and she admits that she "loves to play the game" and enjoys "playing before a crowd."

English tennis enthusiasts expect that Betty will develop into a British Hebe Wills or a French Suzanne Lenglen and confidently predict she will be winning the world's championships by the time she is twenty.

What Jack Dempsey Says About Quitting

Asked a few days ago about the possibility of quitting the squared circle, Jack Dempsey, present heavyweight champion, said: "No, I've no plans of retiring. Why should I? The boxing game is a commercial pursuit just as anything else. So long as I can make money out of it I'm going to stick. There's not much glory in simply being an undefeated retired champion."

Jim Vaughn Gave Smart Answer to Player Ball

Jim Vaughn, now out of the big leagues as an outlaw, was always a great pitcher, but seldom strong on repartee. However, a phrase that is now much used was really coined by Vaughn some fifteen years ago.

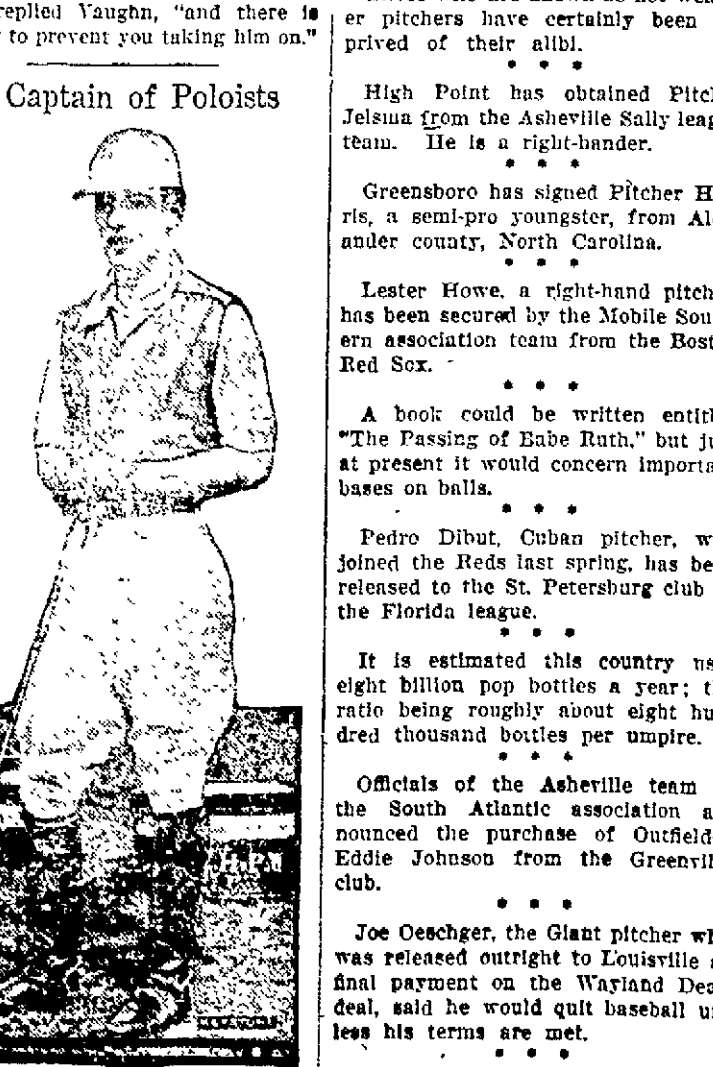

At that time Jim Jeffries reigned supreme among the heavyweight pugilists and Stanley Ketchel was a bear among the middleweights. Jim Vaughn was one of the huskiest built pitchers that ever graced the majors. Well over six feet and weighing around 200 in condition, Vaughn would command attention anywhere.

Jim, always a quiet fellow, enjoyed nothing more than a scuffle in the dressing room. One day he and Neal Ball, who weighed around 150, started to fool in front of the Cleveland bench. It ended when Vaughn picked Ball up bodily and seated him in the corner of the dugout in a rather rude manner. The easy manner in which Vaughn handled Ball caused the latter to remark:

"If I was as big and strong as you I would challenge Jeffries."

"Well, you are just about Ketchel's size," replied Vaughn, "and there is nothing to prevent you taking him on."

Californians Going Strong

In Seabright Tennis Tournament—Today's Singles Matches, H. Kinsey-Westbrook, Snodgrass-Williams, Johnson-Thayer and Niles-Mathey.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Seabright, N. J., July 30.—Four of the eight players remaining today in the Seabright singles, are Californians, which proves conclusively that the Pacific coast is well able to hold its own with the best competition in the country. One court player to be eliminated yesterday was Robert Kinsey, who has felt that entire concentration on doubles play is necessary this week and defaulted to A. D. Thayer of Philadelphia.

The winning of the Seabright doubles championship will have its influence in the selection for Davis Cup play, and Howard Kinsey and Robert Kinsey are keen to make the best possible showing. The only other Californian to drop by the wayside was Clarence Griffin, Johnston's doubles partner, who was eliminated by Nat Niles of Boston, and veteran of many championships. Heat also had its effect on all of the westerners. Johnston noticeably was affected and lacked his usual power in volleying and driving.

"Little Bill" was content to lag in back court, only occasionally electing to take a net position. Griffin's loss to Niles was not altogether unexpected, as an even match seemed inevitable. Griffin looked tired and whined at the start of the second set. Howard Kinsey's win over Norton was well earned. Babe was not beaten until the middle of the third set, when his lack of endurance cost him many running points.

Walter Westbrook was too aggressive for the steady Kynaston, and Dean Mathey, after taking a hard first set from Lang at 9-7, had things easy in the second, losing but a game. Lang hails from New York and has shown good tennis this year. He has a win over Mathey at Nassau and only last week was within two points of beating Harvey Snodgrass. The Southern California star Thayer's win over Hugh Kelleher stamps him as a player to be considered and it will be interesting to watch his development. Yesterday was a bad day for Davis boys players, the Canadians and Mexicans falling at the hands of competitors.

William Johnston eliminated Jack Wright in one of the best matches of the tournament, carrying the former national champion to two long deuce sets at 8-6, 7-5. Wright led a 6-5 in the first stanza when the Californian increased his speed and by clever net play pulled out the set. Luke Williams defeated Crocker, the other Canadian, while the Mexican players were all beaten on the first day of play.

H. Kinsey versus Westbrook, Snodgrass against Williams, is the schedule for the upper half today. Johnston plays Thayer and Niles meets Mathey in the lower.

A number of good doubles matches are also scheduled. All of the favorites coming through yesterday's play successfully.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The Yankees downed the White Sox again, 9 to 4, breaking Hollis Thurston's winning streak of ten straight victories. Ruth and Schang got homers.

Artie Nehf, hit his first two homers of the season and won his own game against the Cardinals, 5 to 2.

Carl Mays was effective and the Reds trimmed the Robins, 13 to 2. Walker knocked two homers.

It took Detroit eleven innings to beat the Athletics, 4 to 3.

Joe Shantz, Speaker's ace, turned in a 4-2 victory over Washington.

The Browns won from the Red Sox 3 to 0, Slater batting in all of his team's runs.

Three runs in the sixth won for the Cubs over the Phillies, 4 to 3.

Ray Kremer, youthful Pittsburgh star, held the Braves to three hits, the Pirates winning 8 to 1.
